

---

Exit Criteria for Requirement Phase

---

- Requirements phase can be exited when the customer signs off on the Contract.
- The Formal Technical Review of the phase should have been conducted.
- The suggestions of the technical review have been considered and applied.
- All the required deliverables of this phase have been generated and reviewed.
- The requirements should have been understood very clearly by the development team.